THE REV. E. DAVIES, and "THE MISSION HOUSE LETTER."

At a MEETING of Ministers and other Gentlemen of various denominations held at the GUILDHALL COFFEE-HOUSE, LONDON, on THURSDAY, 15th May, 1856.

The Rev. W. T. WILD, B.D., Vicar of Westow, and Evening Lecturer of St. James's, Clerkenwell, in the chair.

The important case of the Rev. E. Davies, late Missionary of the London Missionary Society in Barbice, and now minister of the Caledonian-road Chapel, London, was taken into consideration in connexion with the allegations which had been brought against him, and especially with reference to that principal one—"The Mission House Letter."—pretended to have been written by Mr. Davies to his wife in 1845, and to have been picked up from the Mission House floor. At the request of the meeting, the Rev. Robert Alnall, who had long and at great expense defended Mr. Davies against the attacks that had been made upon him, stated the grounds on which he had been led to withdraw from Mr. Davies's defence, and his reasons also for immediately restoring to him his full confidence. Additional and important evidence was also submitted in confirmation of the rectitude and innocence of Mr. Davies, and an infamous book published in 1853 was produced, which had been providentially obtained through an individual who only survived a short time after giving the directions which led to its discovery, and in which was found the identical indecent portion of "The Mission House Letter." This produced a deep sensation. It was carefully compared with "the Mission House Letter" itself, charged upon Mr. Davies, and considered in connexion with other facts and circumstances attendant upon this atrocious case. After some further investigations,

It was moved by the Rev. JAMES BURNS, D.D., Paddington; seconded by the Rev. HENRY DAWKES, London, and carried unanimously,

1. That this Meeting feels painfully the deep and lasting injury which this case is calculated to inflict on the religious character of any denomination of professing Christians in which it could occur, and above all upon religion itself; but is bound, after the investigation it has now gone through, to declare its fullest conviction of the rectitude and innocence of the Rev. E. Davies, being perfectly satisfied that he had nothing whatever to do with the Mission House Letter, pretended to have been written by him to his wife, in 1845, and to have been picked up from the Mission House floor; and that it is an entire fabrication.

Moved by GEORGE JACKSON, Esq., Tattenhall Hall, Cheshire; seconded by the Rev. CHARLES LATHAM, Romford; and carried unanimously,

2. That this Meeting deeply and sincerely sympathises with the Rev. E. Davies under the heavy and protracted trials to which he has been so unjustly and cruelly subjected, as well as in his present long and serious illness, the result of five years of the most harassing anxiety and suffering, almost terminating in death. And this meeting heartily commends him under these accumulated afflictions, in which nothing but Divine aid and conscious innocence could have sustained him, to the impartial and generous support of every Christian and upright man.

A Committee was forthwith formed for the purpose of carrying out the object of these resolutions, and of which the Rev. T. B. Barker was appointed Secretary, and John Jones, Esq., Treasurer. That Committee will be happy to receive communications from friends who may be disposed in any way to co-operate. A subscription was entered into by the gentlemen assembled to meet the expenses attendant upon these proceedings; and further contributions will be thankfully received either by the Secretary, Grove Cottage, George's Grove, Holloway, or the Treasurer. If by Post-office Order, to be made payable at the Islington Post-office, to John Jones, Esq., 68, Gibson-square, Islington, London.

(By order of the Committee)

THE ANNUAL MEETING of the above SOCIETY was held in EDINBURGH on the 6th MAY. The report by the Directors stated that the number of policies issued during the year ending 1st March last, was 638, the sums assured thereby being 293,950*l.*, and the annual premiums thereon 9,120*l.*
